The Wright Family 2013

Not enough hours in the day, we often say, as we watch as the business of life allows time to slip away.

Before we know, days turn to months and months into years.

Time is mapped with laughter and cheers,
the long road sometimes marked with sadness and tears.

Elders pass and children grow...

“Has it been that long?” we ask, where does the time go?

Not every chance to gather is taken.

"We'll see them next time," we say and hope we're not mistaken.

A chance like now comes once in a lifetime it seems,
when the bright light of family is nurtured and beams,
there will be laughter and time to reminisce
we will all be glad this is a chance we did not miss.
